Charity fears cuts may hit its 'lifesaving' work

• Chris Osborn says Base 33 saved his life

By George Welch

A WITNEY charity which saved a youth's life is facing uncertainty as future cuts threaten its support for disadvantaged young people.

Base 33 helps 13 to 24-year-olds in West Oxfordshire who are disadvantaged, outside education or struggling with drugs, but fears its services could be hit in the wake of Oxfordshire County Council cuts which include slashing finding to children's centres.

Its help proved vital for Chris Osborn, now 23, but just 16 when he first attended Base 33. He had been running away from home as he struggled to deal with personal and family relationships. Other issues of mixing with the wrong people, anger management and drink and drugs meant he required support.

Mr Osborn, who had moved from Leicester to Witney, said: "I wasn't going down a good path. I moved here and met the same sort of people.

"I came here for a drop-in one Monday night and started coming here ever since."

Mr Osborn, who lives in Burwell Drive, Witney, began

Explosion clears way for bodies' recovery

THE remainder of the collpased Didcot 'A' Power Station boilerhouse has been demolished, allowing a search for three missing workers to resume.

The structure was demolished at about 6am on Sunday using explosives planted by robots, following the partial collapse in February which killed four workers.

The body of 53-year-old Mick Collings, from North Yorkshire, was found on the same day of the collapse.

But the bodies of Ken Cresswell, 57, and John Shaw, 61, both of Rotherham, and Christopher Huxtable, 34, of Swansea, remain lost in the rubble.

By George Welch

RWE Npower, which owns the site, said the demolition had "gone as planned".

An Npower spokesperson said: "Now that the building has been brought down an inspection has confirmed that the area and debris pile are safe and our contractors have resumed the recovery operation.

"We will continue working seven days a week, 12 hours a day, to help return these families' loved ones to them as soon as possible."

A small crowd gathered to watch the controlled demolition from Ladygrove Mound, about a mile from the site. Just after 6am, a large bang was heard, followed by several smaller ones, with the building collapsing in a matter of seconds.

A blanket of dark grey dust covered the entire site and the remaining three cooling towers were hidden from sight for several minutes.

An exclusion zone for demolition had been set up within the power station boundary fence and emergency services were on stand-by.

A letter sent to local residents and businesses in Didcot on Friday confirmed the station would be demolished on Sunday between 5.30am and 7.30am.

In another letter to local residents and businesses on Monday last week, Npower had said the demolition process would take "up to two weeks" and that residents would be given 48 hours' notice of demolition.

Npower said that due to the unsafe nature of the boiler house it did not have "usual access to the building to fully assess conditions or place demolition charges naturally".

As a result, the demolition design had been "extremely complicated". Alford Technologies were the contractors drafted in to carry out the robotics work and install the charges.

Brown and Mason, which replaced Coleman and Company as principal contractor, oversaw the removal of the material when the building was brought down.

The coal-fired plant, which closed in 2013, collapsed in February and the search for the three missing people believed to be buried under the rubble was called off in May.

The search was halted when contractors reached a 50m (164ft) exclusion zone, beyond which was considered too dangerous to continue.

Timeline

TUESDAY 23 FEBRUARY 2016
- At 4.04pm, almost half of the main boiler room building collapsed, sending up a cloud of dust.
- The 300m-long and 10-storey high building at Didcot 'A' Power Station collapsed while it was being prepared for demolition, killing four people.
- One body was found. Three workers remain missing.
- Five other people were injured, three seriously.
- 47 people were treated for dust inhalation.
- The rubble from the collapse was nine metres high and unstable.
- About 100 firefighters from across the UK, including as far away as Merseyside, were on hand to search for the missing workers overnight.
- Sniffer dogs, thermal-imaging cameras, a drone and army robots searched for the lost men overnight and into the next day.

SATURDAY 5 MARCH 2016
- The day of the originally planned explosive demolition, a process which involved cutting the structure to pre-weaken it.

SUNDAY 13 MARCH 2016
- The families of the three missing workers stage a "peaceful protest" at the site.
- Two of the three families had previously criticised the rescue operation, saying it had been too slow.

WEDNESDAY 16 MARCH 2016
- The Health and Safety Executive (HSE) approved a rescue plan by site owners Npower to begin a proper search at the site, 22 days after the collapse.
- Rescuers and equipment arrive at the power station with rescue operation to begin three days later at the weekend.

MONDAY 25 APRIL 2016
- Npower say explosives are to be used to demolish the remainder of the building.
- Steve Hall, son-in-law of Ken Cresswell, protested about the decision, saying: "We want the men back in one piece, not many pieces."

TUESDAY 3 MAY 2016
- Demolition firm Brown and Mason replaces Coleman and Company as contractors to manage recovery work. Coleman and Company said it was "hugely disappointing" it had to cease work at the site.

TUESDAY 24 MAY 2016
- The search for the missing men is suspended because the search team reached a 50m 'exclusion zone', inside which is deemed unsafe.
- The failure to recover the bodies is a "national scandal", Labour MP for Rotherham Sarah Champion said.

WEDNESDAY 8 JUNE 2016
- Military personnel and equipment are called in to help recover the three missing men.

TUESDAY 21 JUNE 2016
- Npower confirms the structure is to be blown up, with robots being their preferred method.

MONDAY 11 JULY 2016
- A letter is sent by Npower to notify residents and businesses that demolition will take place "within two weeks" and they will be given 48 hours' notice.
- Npower said that due to the unsafe nature of the boiler house it did not have "usual access to the building to fully assess conditions or place demolition charges naturally".

FRIDAY 15 JULY 2016
- A second letter confirms demolition will take place between 5.30am and 7.30am on the Sunday.

SUNDAY 17 JULY 2016
- The remainder of the Didcot 'A' Power Station building was demolished in a controlled explosion at 6am using robots.
- Npower say the demolition had "gone as planned".
- After safety inspections, the search for the three missing men resumed.

Put up a memorial for lost men, says MP

DIDCOT and Wantage MP Ed Vaizey has called for a memorial for the Didcot 'A' Power Station collapse victims, saying owners RWE Npower should fund it.

Mr Vaizey has written to the chairman of RWE Npower, which owns the site, arguing that it is "appropriate" for them to do so.

Speaking after the demolition of the boiler house on Sunday almost five months following the initial collapse that killed four people, he said it should commemorate the four workers who died in the collapse on February 23.

The Conservative MP told BBC Radio Oxford: "RWE should look very carefully at building a suitable memorial to those who lost their lives and the huge contribution it has made to the life of Didcot.

"That would be a very appropriate thing to do."

The recovery operation to find the missing men has been resumed.

An Npower spokesperson said: "Our key focus is on the recovery operation. Whilst our focus is on recovering the missing men, it would not be appropriate to discuss memorials at this point. However, it is definitely something we will consider at the right time."

Passing motorists spot the flames erupting from HGV

Driver escapes blazing lorry

• The lorry after the fire

• A firefighter hoses down the vehicle

By George Welch

PASSING motorists came to the rescue by alerting a driver that his lorry was on fire.

The driver of the 30-tonne lorry which caught fire on the A361 London Road, near Chipping Norton, on Wednesday last week, escaped serious harm in the incident.

He managed to jump out of the lorry cab and call 999 just moments before his vehicle became immersed in fire.

Oxfordshire County Council Fire and Rescue Service was called at 5pm and by the time its crews arrived at the scene, the lorry, which was carrying aggregate, was engulfed in flames.

A fire engine from Chipping Norton Fire Station was on the scene within minutes. The A44 Banbury Road was briefly closed off. An additional tender was requested from Charlbury Fire Station due of the size of the blaze and volume of diesel the lorry could carry to ensure the incident was quickly and safely dealt and the road reopened as soon as it was safe to do so.

Kevin Jeffrey, Watch Commander Chipping Norton and incident commander, said: "[The driver's] actions were spot on.

"He quickly and safely pulled over and dismounted his vehicle just moments before a serious fire broke out.

"He immediately moved away from the fire to a place of safety and called 999."

He added: "This is exactly the same action to take if you discover a fire in your property and emphasises the importance of one of our key messages: Get out, stay out, and call the Fire Service out."

Station manager Mick Clarke, who also attended the incident, said: "The decision to close this arterial route at one of the busiest times of day was not taken lightly.

"An incident of this nature whilst usually shortlived, requires a dynamic attack from fire crews.

"Stopping and diverting the traffic temporarily was necessary for the incident's successful conclusion, and to keep the public and crew safe, and I would like to thank the public for their patience and understanding".

Charity could see its council funding cut

attending sessions at Base 33 five days a week, finding them to be a turning point in his life.

Mr Osborn said: "I think it's really saved my life."

He now has a three-month-old baby girl and is about to start a job as a binman. He is looking to move home and has aspirations of university and becoming a local councillor.

But Mr Osborn isn't the only youth the charity has helped.

Base 33, which sees about 80 young people a week, is preparing for demand for its services to rise following the council's proposed cuts, which include closing 26 out of the county's 44 children's centres.

Base chief executive Wendy Dawson said: "We are not certain of what is going to happen in 2017 because of the savings the local authorities have got to make. We completely understand that, but it will have a knock on effect because we need money to support young people on the edge of society."

The charity should know budget proposals in September, but is preparing for the prospect of no funding.

Mrs Dawson, who has been involved in youth services for over 30 years, said: "The knock-on effects would be a real travesty because it would be very difficult for us to sustain our current work. The level of young people isn't going down. If Base 33 is not here, then what other intervention is there?"

Mrs Dawson said Base 33 should be "growing into our own" to become a commissioned service, rather than a charity relying on grants.

Mr Osborn has become a graduate of the charity, working as a volunteer youth worker, mentor and ambassador.

Mrs Dawson said: "It's not about just being a volunteer because Chris has got more to him than that. If you graduate, it demonstrates you have progressed and moved on."

Conversion plans

WEST OXON: Two former churches in West Oxfordshire could be converted into homes.

A plan has been submitted to West Oxfordshire District Council to convert the redundant Baptist Chapel, in High Street, Bampton, into a three-bedroom holiday home by Stone Trees Estates Limited.

The council has also received a plan to transform the former Ducklington Baptist Chapel, in Witney Road, which has been vacant for the last three years, into a one-bedroom home.

Bus routes

WITNEY: Witney's town centre bus services 213/214/215, provided by Stagecoach, have been cut after the end of council funding.

Fifty-four bus routes were lost across the county yesterday, out of 118, following the subsidy withdrawal.

A Go Ride CIC will be offering a short-term town centre service from Monday to Friday.

Witney Town Council say they are working hard to secure a long-term town centre service.

The loss of nearly half of Oxfordshire's subsidised bus routes will bring "economic exclusion" to rural communities, campaigners warn.

Another 64 will run commercially across the county in some form, but could also be scrapped if they are not used.

The county council said government cuts meant it had to make savings.

Tributes paid to football club's managing director

The body of Colin Taylor was discovered by a member of the public at about 9.20am on Sunday at the Marsh Lane stadium in Marston.

Thames Valley Police said his death was not thought to be suspicious and a file was being prepared for the coroner.

In a statement, the club said: "Our thoughts and prayers are with Colin's family and friends at this time."

It said the directors of the club made the announcement with the "deepest sadness".

By George Welch

Mr Taylor, 62, had been a director at the club for 15 years, having been appointed in 2001, according to a company records website.

Chairman Brian Cox, who had been friends with Mr Taylor for more than 25 years, said he was "shocked" by the news.

On Sunday evening, the club took to Twitter to add: "On behalf of everybody at Oxford City we would like to thank everyone for their messages of support at this difficult time".

Thames Valley Police said: "At around 9.20am this morning Thames Valley Police received a call from a member of the public who had discovered the body of a man at Oxford City football grounds in Oxford.

"At this stage there appears to be no suspicious circumstances and a file is being prepared for the coroner.

"The next of kin has been informed and the family have asked for privacy at this difficult time."

Footballer Scott Davies, who only signed for the National League South club this summer, tweeted his condolences: "In absolutely shock. Only knew him for a short period of time but what a lovely bloke he was. RIP mate x".

Another player Ryan Barney, who was at the club until recently signing for neighbouring Didcot Town, said: "So shocked to hear the news about the sudden passing of Colin Taylor.

"Such a nice guy who helped me a lot in my time at Oxford city.

"My thoughts go out to the family and close friends. RIP Colin."

Oxford City are a non-league club who play in the National League South division.

Vaizey names park

• Didcot and Wantage MP Ed Vaizey at the new business park

DIDCOT and Wantage MP Ed Vaizey has helped launch Faringdon's new retail park.

Mr Vaizey, who was recently appointed to the Privy Council but lost his role as a culture minister, officially named the new site as Faringdon Park.

The retail centre, set to open early next year will be home to Aldi, Costa and Waitrose.

Based on the A420, on the junction with Park Road, Costa will be the first of the three to open its doors at the park, creating eight to 10 jobs.

Aldi and Waitrose are due to open for business in spring 2017.

Faringdon Park, which is being built by Britannia Construction, for Aviva Investors, will create a total of more than 125 full- and part-time jobs.

The development also sees £60,000 of contributions towards Faringdon's infrastructure.

Mr Vaizey said: "I am so delighted to see Faringdon and the entrepreneurial spirit of its inhabitants coming together to drive commerce, increase employment, spread prosperity, and announce to the world that Faringdon is open for business."

Ecologist's trek is set to launch college festival

A RENOWNED ecologist is set to walk from London to Oxford at the age of 80 to raise the curtain on a festival of events in the city.

Satish Kumar, who is editor-in-chief of Resurgence, an ecology magazine, will walk from London along the Thames Path on Sunday, September 18, ahead of a three-day event at Worcester College in September.

He is set to arrive in Oxford on Wednesday, September 21.

The event will celebrate 50 years of the magazine as well as looking ahead to the future, and includes a series of events and speeches on a range of issues, under the title 'One Earth, One Humanity, One Future'.

By Dominic Thomas

Kumar, a former Jain monk, has been the editor of the magazine, which focuses on issues around ecology, social justice, philosophy, spirituality, sustainable development and the arts, for 43 years, but is retiring next month.

New editor Greg Neale, who will be taking over from him in August, said: "Walking has always been a theme in Satish's life and I think it's quite fitting that he has decided to walk again this time to mark this occasion."

Mr Kumar rose to prominence during the Cold War when he and a friend walked more than 8,000 miles from India to Moscow, Paris, London and Washington DC to spread a message of peace.

The festival will feature a number of speakers from different fields including former Archbishop of Canterbury Rowan Williams, Green MP Caroline Lucas and poet Simon Armitage.

"Oxford seemed to be a very good choice for location for all sorts of reasons. I think it's a tribute to Oxford's capacity for attracting where ideas can be exchanged, so it's very fitting for our event in order to celebrate the last 50 years and look ahead to the future," added Mr Neale.

The events will take place between September 22 to 25.

Mr Kumar will be joined on his walk by 50 other friends and magazine readers.

He explained how the event would be "a call for humanity to reflect on how we are affecting our planet's four core natural elements of earth, fire, air and water".

Tickets to the festival events will be available online from www.resurgence.org/R50

Technology company launches new software for driverless vehicles

• The driverless car with the Oxbotica team

AN Oxfordshire technology firm has unveiled new software for driverless vehicles.

Oxbotica, the award-winning technology company based in Oxford, launched its new Selenium mobile autonomy software with a car at Culham Science Centre last week.

The company, a spin-off of Oxford University's Mobile Robotics Group, was founded by two Oxford professors, Paul Newman and Ingmar Posner, and is led by chief executive Dr Graeme Smith.

Selenium can work in pedestrianised environments as well as roads and motorways, and is not reliant on GPS to operate.

The system has been developed to be "vehicle agnostic" – meaning it can be applied to cars, self-driving pods, and warehouse truck fleets.

Selenium's system allows a range of tasks, including motion control, braking, calibration and navigation.

Selenium is set to be deployed at a series of trials.

Commenting on the launch, Dr Smith said: "Autonomous vehicles are the future and our new software is leading the field."

Cloudy2Clear Announce Trusted Trader Partnership

Consumer champions Which? have now joined the thousands of customers who recognise that Cloudy2Clear Windows really are a business that you can TRUST. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes – not the frames has received the coveted 'Which Trusted Trader' status after going through a rigorous accreditation process entirely focussed on customer service.

Group Managing Director Marcus McGee believes that Which? have endorsed Cloudy2Clear's long standing company policy of delivering the highest standards possible at all times. 'Our service is simple. If your double glazing has misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 25 year guarantee. But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps. Whilst a number of tradespeople perhaps don't focus on customer care as much as they should do, we make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle.

Locally Cloudy2Clear service the Oxfordshire area from their local depots and manager James Miller agrees that this approach is a major factor in his success. 'The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated as both my customers and, obviously a body as nationally important as Which? now recognise.'

So, if your windows are steamed up, broken or damaged give James a call for a free quotation on 0800 61 21 118 and he'll be happy to help!

Jumping for joy

The housebuilder, which is building homes at Great Western Park on the outskirts of the town, donated £500 to the club to help pay for new uniforms for its members.

Governor resigns

OXON: A governor at Southern Health NHS Foundation Trust has resigned.

The trust has been under fire since a report found it had failed to properly investigate hundreds of deaths of patients, including that of Connor Sparrowhawk in Oxford.

In his resignation letter, John Green, Public Governor for the South West, described the way in which the trust and the NHS responded to the report as "farcical".

The Pokemon Go app was officially launched in the UK last Thursday, meaning users can locate the digital monsters using their smartphone cameras. It uses GPS on people's phones to track where they go.

Cancer survivor battles back to complete 10km

AN Oxfordshire man has taken part in a 10km run around London's Olympic Stadium just a year after beating testicular cancer.

Gareth Thomas, 28, of Summertown, Oxford, was also diagnosed with perthes disease, a hereditary bone condition, at the age of 11, which made exercise difficult.

Having got the all-clear in 2011 and having a hip replacement two years later, Gareth, a keen rugby player at school and college, decided he could finally get back to full fitness, taking part in a competition to help him get back in shape.

• Gareth Thomas at the Olympic Stadium on Sunday

By Dominic Thomas

He was selected from hundreds of entrants in a competition by seed bar brand 9BAR, which put him in touch with celebrity trainer Prof Greg Whyte, who trained nine people struggling to reach their fitness goals.

He said: "I've not been able to exercise properly in years and it's really put a downer on my confidence. For a long time I felt like my body wasn't my own. At the start of the year I promised myself I'd do something to change that, hence entering this competition.

"I heard about it on the radio, and my girlfriend had just done the marathon last year so I just thought why not tell my story, which I don't often do, and work towards it."

He completed the event at the Olympic Stadium on Sunday.

He gave advice to those struggling with exercise, saying: "If you're doing it yourself I think it's all about having a gradual plan. Not starting yourself too hard at first because it can be disheartening if you don't meet your targets early on."

Staff raise cash for equipment

STAFF at Oxford Eye Hospital are raising money to improve the diagnosis and treatment of young patients.

The hospital is fundraising towards the cost of a £36,000 scanner for the Nuffield Orthopaedic Centre (NOC) and a £50,000 camera for imaging blood flow in the retinas of premature babies in the John Radcliffe Hospital's special care baby unit.

Having a scanner at the NOC would enable staff to see children the same day to quickly diagnose and treat any problems.

On the baby unit, a scanner camera to image blood flow in the retina would help in understanding the mechanisms by which the disease occurs, leading to potential improvements in management.

• Oxford Eye Hospital staff at the Windsor Triathlon in June

Consultant ophthalmologist Srilakshmi Sharma said of the scanners: "The new cutting-edge equipment will help us quickly and easily obtain images of the retina and make prompt diagnoses and treatment decisions."

For the last five years, the eye hospital staff have raised £3,000 for imaging equipment for young patients for the Paediatric Eye Fund, part of the Oxford Radcliffe Hospitals Charitable Funds.

Eight eye hospital staff members also raised £1,600 in sponsorship between three teams by taking part in the Windsor Triathlon on Saturday, June 11.

Eye hospital business manager Matt Wardle said: "It was a thoroughly enjoyable day and, considering the 4am start, everybody was in high spirits and performed superbly."

Roundabout work set to be finished six weeks early

By George Welch

THE completion date for roadworks on the Cutteslowe and Wolvercote roundabouts is to be six weeks earlier than expected.

The work is entering the final stages on the 16-month project and the finish date has been brought forward from late November to mid-October.

Oxfordshire County Council says it is about 80 per cent through the construction project.

Anyone interested in finding out more about the progress that has been made so far on the roundabouts and approaches at Cutteslowe and Wolvercote has been invited by the county council to a drop-in event today.

The session will take place at the Jury's Inn, Wolvercote, between 11am and 6pm.

Members of the team will be on hand to talk through what has been done so far and what is still to be done. There will also be information on a slight change to the design on part of Cutteslowe roundabout, which includes a separately signalled, left-turn lane from the Banbury Road for cars wanting to head down the A40 towards Headington.

The approach on the A40 to Cutteslowe roundabout will also be reduced from the originally proposed four lanes to three to improve safety.

County councillor David Nimmo Smith, cabinet member for transport, said: "The team really appreciate the patience of residents and road users during the work and I hope that the early finish, combined with all the improvements, will have a positive effect for all from mid-October."

The changes have no implications in terms of cost or the time it will take to complete the work.

Meanwhile, the council is carrying out night works. The council says the works are disruptive for residents but they can only be done at night and they are being kept to an absolute minimum.

Construction on the two roundabouts will see both junctions become traffic light-controlled, with approaches widened and new pedestrian and cycle crossings.

Transport bosses said the scheme would improve traffic flows and help meet demand for developments, such as the Northern Gateway business park.

The work, which started in July 2015, is estimated to cost between £9m and £10m.

Families enjoy F1 event

FRIENDS and family of staff at the Renault Formula One team's headquarters in Enstone were treated to a fun day on Saturday.

More than a thousand people visited to have a wander round the base, sit inside this year's car and see their hosts at work.

Guided tours around the factory were held, while race driver Jolyon Palmer also made an appearance to sign autographs and chat with visitors.

There was a variety of children's activites going as well, such as face painting, balloons and plenty of ice cream. Cyril Abiteboul, managing director of Renault Sport Racing, said: "Renault has over 500 employees on the Enstone site so it's a significant local employer.

"Saturday was all about opening the doors to our employees' families and friends to allow them a glimpse of the high-tech world which nestles in the beautiful Oxfordshire countryside.

"We're very early in the development of the Renault Sport Formula One Team based out of Enstone and there are a lot of exciting plans we have for the future."

Tesco store rejected

By Samantha McGregor

COUNCILLORS have thrown out controversial plans by Tesco to build a supermarket and petrol station on an out-of-town site at Thame.

The supermarket giant wanted to demolish an industrial building at Kingsmead Business Park and build the store and petrol station plus a car park.

Last week, the Oxfordshire Guardian revealed South Oxfordshire District Council planning officers had recommended that the plans should be refused by members.

And, on Wednesday last week, the councillors agreed with officers and rejected the planning application.

Tesco has yet to indicate whether it will appeal.

A spokesman said: "We were sorry to hear about the outcome of this application and are currently reviewing our options.

"We would like to take this opportunity to thank those who expressed their support for the scheme."

Concerns had been raised that the out-of-town location would have a negative impact on town-centre traders.

But there was a mixed reaction from residents, with 688 letters from people supporting the application and 513 opposing it.

In refusing the application, the councillors said: "In this location the provision of a supermarket of the size proposed would divert trade from the town centre and would have an adverse impact on its viability and vitality.

"The proposal would, therefore, undermine the important economic and social role of the town centre and the 'town centre first' policy.

The councillors said the application was contrary to the local plan and Thame Neighbourhood Plan.

They further agreed that site had not been marketed for continued industrial employment and was therefore not "redundant" for that use.

Some residents said there was a need for the supermarket because of Thame's growing population and it would create jobs, but others, including Thame Town Council, said it would have a negative impact on the town centre, impact nearby homes, increased traffic and result in the loss of an industrial employment site.

An application by Tesco in 1996 was also refused on the grounds it would have had a detrimental impact on the "vitality and viability" of Thame town centre and other local centres.

New name for sports ground

TWO names have been shortlisted for Bicester's new sports village and now people are being asked to vote for their favourite.

Land at the Kingsmere housing estate has been transformed into the sports site, which includes sports pitches, a cycling and jogging track, an outdoor gym and a still-to-be constructed two-storey pavilion.

Cherwell District Council and Bicester Town Council have put forward Whitelands Farm Sports Ground, in recognition of the site's past use, or the Queen Elizabeth II Sports Ground in honour of the Queen who turned 90 this year.

Everyone who casts a vote will be automatically entered in a prize draw to win an annual membership pass worth £470 to use the pool, gym and class facilities at Bicester Leisure Centre.

Councillor Richard Mould, chairman of Bicester Town Council's policy committee, said: "Both of the names shortlisted by Bicester Town Council have significance and in delivering a project for the future, the identity of the site will provide a link to the past."

Cllr George Reynolds, Cherwell's deputy leader, said: "We know from past projects that people have felt excluded from key decisions so we are inviting people to get involved by having the final say over the naming of the new facilities."

People have until July 29 to cast a vote for their choice and the decision will be announced in August.

People can vote via the council's Facebook or Twitter pages or email communications.team@cherwellandsouthnorthants.gov.uk

Teenager wins award for 'Secret Santa' campaign

By George Welch

A DIDCOT teenager has collected a prestigious award at Westminster for her Secret Santa campaign.

Courtney Hughes, who delivered 5,000 presents to a variety of Oxfordshire charities last Christmas, collected the British Citizen Award on July 7, beating 23 other nominees.

The Great Western Drive resident, who has been delivering the gifts for four years, and a team of volunteers wrapped each present before delivering them to hospital patients and elderly and homeless people.

Speaking of her award, the nursing assistant at Sobell House hospice in Oxford, said: "I found out in April that I had been nominated. I thought that was amazing in itself, but I didn't think I would be awarded it."

Her campaign sees presents donated by the community and companies and includes everything from food to children's toys and baby clothes.

Miss Hughes started the event in memory of her grandmother who died in 2013. In her first year, she delivered 250 presents, but during Christmas 2015 she delivered 5,000.

Her parents, other grandmother, godmother, younger sister and her partner accompanied Miss Hughes on the day to Westminster Palace, where her medal was presented.

She said: "It was absolutely amazing. It was a very breathtaking day and it was very inspirational to meet the other [nominees] people".

Courtney praised the community support from social media and newspapers to help "bring the Christmas spirit back to life".

Coin-theft ex-councillor told to pay back £183k

• Jonathan Woodley-Shead

A FORMER South Oxfordshire councillor who defrauded his employers out of more than £220,000 has been ordered to pay back more than £183,000 or see his prison term increased.

Jonathan Woodley-Shead, of The Glebe, Culham, was sentenced to three years in prison in February for stealing £223,659.65 from coin-operated washing machines.

It came after the 52-year-old was elected to South Oxfordshire District Council as the Conservative representative for Sandford and The Wittenhams last May, but stood down two months later.

He had been employed by Armstrong Commercial Laundry Systems, based in Newbury, to service washing machines and dryers in the Newbury area.

Woodley-Shead stole the vast quantity of coins over the years while he was servicing the machines between 2009 and 2015.

He pleaded guilty to one count of theft at Reading Crown Court on December 22 last year, before being sentenced on February 3.

At a confiscation hearing on July 8 at the same court he was ordered to pay back £183,183.88 within three months or face a further two-and-a half years in jail and still have to pay the money back.

City buildings named on shortlist for major prize

By George Welch

TWO Oxford buildings have made the shortlist for the prestigious 2016 RIBA Stirling Prize for the UK's best new building.

The shortlist, which was announced last Thursday, puts the buildings in competition with four other British buildings, with architecture's highest accolade to be awarded by the Royal Institute of British Architects (RIBA) on October 6.

Two buildings within the University of Oxford – the Blavatnik School of Government and the restored Weston Library – have been nominated.

Other nominees include the Riverside Campus at the City of Glasgow College, Damian Hirst's new Newport Street Gallery in Vauxhall and Trafalgar Place, the first wholescale redevelopment of London's 1970s Heygate Estate.

The competition, now in its 21st year, is rounded off with Outhouse, located in the Forest of Dean in Gloucestershire, which is the first private house to feature on the prize's shortlist for 15 years.

With half the shortlist being educational buildings, Oxford University is responsible for an unprecedented two of the six projects - the Blavatnik School of Government in Walton Street and the Bodleian's Weston Library in Broad Street.

The Blavatnik School of Government, a contemporary building in a conservation area marks a major departure from the traditional historical Oxford design, while the Weston Library, a grade-II listed building, has undergone significant restoration and reinvigoration.

The RIBA Stirling Prize is awarded to the building that has made the biggest contribution to the evolution of architecture in a given year.

Speaking about the shortlist, RIBA President Jane Duncan said: "Every one of the six buildings shortlisted today illustrates the huge benefit that well-designed buildings can bring to people's lives.

"As seen at Trafalgar Place and Newport Street Gallery, they can breathe life and kick-start regeneration in neglected urban pockets to create new, desirable destinations and communities. As with Blavatnik School of Government, Weston Library and City of Glasgow College, they can give cities and institutions a new landmark to delight and draw in visitors, improve education potential, and increase civic pride."

Old tram is unveiled

VISITORS can take a trip back in time after Oxford Bus Museum revealed a newly-restored, horse-drawn tram among its exhibits on Wednesday last week.

The masterpiece of British craftsmanship was unveiled by Deputy Lord Lieutenant of Oxfordshire John Harwood at the museum at Hanborough railway station.

He said: "The Oxford Bus Museum is a little-known gem. It preserves all sorts of old and not so old buses and coaches, and it gives a fascinating insight into how public transport has changed over the years.

"This tram has been restored over the last five years with loving attention to its period details, rather longer than it took to build in the first place."

The museum, which tells the story of the county's bus and coach travel over the last 130 years, contains more than 30 vintage vehicles, along with various artifacts.

It also hosts the Morris Motors Museum, and more than 40 vintage bikes.

Mr Harwood said: "Even more impressive is that it has all been done by a dedicated team of volunteers. They deserve huge congratulations for their skill and perseverance."

Prayers for PM

OXON: The acting Bishop of Oxford offered his prayers for Theresa May as she took over as the country's new Prime Minister last week.

Rt Revd Colin Fletcher said: "Mrs May grew up in the Diocese of Oxford where her father, the Reverend Hubert Brasier, was first vicar of Enstone with Heythrop and later of Wheatley, where she and her husband were married.

"I can assure Mrs May of my continued prayers as she takes up office at such a critical time for our country."

Shop worker in effort to raise cash for charity trip to Africa

By Samantha McGregor

A BICESTER shop worker is hoping to raise £800 so she can help children in West Africa.

Dominique Hurley, 20, wants to travel to Togo to support young people who are at risk of getting drawn into a life of crime.

She would work for charity YCare International, in conjunction with the International Citizen Service, as a volunteer for three months.

During her trip, she would support work to improve the youth justice system in Togo, help prevent children and young people getting involved in crime and support those who have been in prison to be rehabilitated.

Dominique, a former Cooper School pupil, believes it would be a "life-changing" experience for her.

She said: "I decided to volunteer because I've never had the chance to do anything like this before. It will be an amazing and life-changing experience and being able to give something to people less fortunate is priceless."

She said: "I'm looking forward to meeting new people from a different country and learning about their culture and how they live differently to us and living in a different environment.

"I'm not looking forward to the seven vaccinations I have to try and the long flight, but everything else I'm excited for.

"I need to raise £800 and so far I've raised half, I've got half by family and friends generously donating and I've got a sponsored walk coming up when I'll be walking 10k."

If she can raise the cash, Dominique, of Bicester, would leave the UK on September 26 and return just before Christmas.

YCare works in 20 countries, including Liberia, Colombia, the UK and Sierra Leone.

The organisation provides training and education to give young people skills to get a job, health care support and practical assistance in emergencies and disasters. Anyone who wants to donate can contact Dominique via her social networking site Facebook or drop in to see her at the town's Peacocks store.

Witnesses sought to attempted robbery

On Friday, July 15, two men wearing masks and armed with a shotgun tried to steal a box containing cash from a G4S security van which was making a delivery.

The men made their getaway in a car which officers believe drove towards the southbound M40.

The incident happened at 11.20am and police sealed off the scene while they carried out investigations.

The police helicopter was also scrambled.

Det Sgt Antony Maddison, of Abingdon Force CID, appealed for anyone who witnessed the incident to come forward.

He said: "I would like to reassure people that we are carrying out an extensive investigation into this incident, which is very rare for the area, and we are currently pursuing a number of leads.

"However, we would like to hear from anyone who may have witnessed the incident, or who has any information which they think could help us, to contact us via the non-emergency number 101 quoting URN 515 15/7."

Anyone who does not want to speak to the police directly can contact the confidential Crimestoppers line anonymously on 0800 555111.

Puzzles

Sudoku

The objective is to fill a 9×9 grid with digits so that each column, each row, and each of the nine 3×3 sub-grids that compose the grid (also called "boxes", "blocks", "regions", or "sub-squares") contains all of the digits from 1 to 9. The puzzle setter provides a partially completed grid, which for a well-posed puzzle has a unique solution.

Summer maintenance recommendations

Many people think that winter is the time when they should do all of the maintenance tasks on their vehicle. But they would be wrong. Vehicles need regular care and attention and there are many tasks that should be done in the spring or summer months. Especially if you are going to be using your car to go on holiday, either in the UK or abroad. The right preparation can make the difference between a good holiday and a rather expensive and uncomfortable one. So here is a quick list of things that are worth checking at this time of year, in addition to the regular checks like oil and water.

Overheating is a common summer problem. However well maintained all your cooling systems are, including having the correct volume and concentration of coolant and a fully functioning engine cooling fan, it is still possible to overheat. Especially when sat on the car park that is the M25 on a Friday evening heading somewhere nice for the weekend, because it's scorching and you need to make the most of that one weekend of sunshine. (Remember always wear sunscreen!) Any car however well maintained can overheat when it's just too hot. If your engine temperature does appear to being too high, the best way to get it back in check is to turn your heater on full power and turn the air conditioning on. This will usually help bring the temperature back down. Also If you can, take a break for half an hour or so at a services and let your car have some time to cool.

AIR CONDITIONING

Air conditioning units in cars use a refrigerant gas to work efficiently and keep you cool in the summer. This gas is lost at a rate of about 15% per year, this figure can vary depending on use and the quality of the system. So it is important to have your air conditioning serviced regularly. The recommendations say that this should be every two years or 30,000 miles, whichever comes first. We think that in theory that is a nice idea and if you are organized enough to manage that, then great! However, if you live in the kind of world that I do, where remembering an annual service and the MOT date is hard enough, then we think you can judge when you need an sir con service yourself, by turning on your air conditioning and seeing if it cools you down quickly and enough!

The trouble with the British summer is that it is so very unpredictable and we can go from a chilly jumper day to sweltering shorts and t-shirt day in less than a week and then back down again just as quickly. So having the air conditioning working for the days when you think your head may explode you are so hot, it is definitely worth keeping it working efficiently.

Another thing to remember about air conditioning is that using it all the time will increase fuel consumption. So try to only use it when you really need it. But if you suffer from hay fever then air conditioning can help to reduce pollen levels, which can help noticeably.

AIR FILTER

This should be replaced at your annual service. It is worth checking with your garage that this has been done and the quality of filter that has been used, don't accept cheap parts, or your car will suffer for it. Due to the amount of pollen, bugs and other debris in the air during the summer your air filter is likely to get more clogged up and reduce in its efficiency.

BODYWORK

Bodywork or paintwork repairs can be costly, although with the advent of SMART repairs small to medium area repairs are far less expensive. During the summer we tend to see many more cars with noticeable dents and chips to paintwork, due to the roadworks that are done in this period. To avoid damaging your car too badly, reduce your speed to the recommended speed limit on areas of road that have recently been resurfaced, often this will be just 20 miles per hour, for an additional 5 to 10 minutes on your journey it is worth it to keep your vehicle in good condition. Also keep a good distance between you and the vehicle in front as they will be kicking up debris also.

BRAKES

Brakes are made up of a number of elements. Discs, pads and fluid. These should be checked at an annual service, and replaced if necessary. Some garages will give you an idea of how long your discs and pads may have left in them when you get your vehicle serviced, and advise when you might need to return to get them done. Some garages will just change them to get the extra income in terms of parts and labor even if they still have a good life left in them. If your discs and pads have been replaced during a service, you can ask to see the removed parts, so that you can understand how worn they actually were.

If your summer holiday involves a lot of driving, hilly or mountainous terrain then you should ideally get your garage to give your brakes a quick once over before you go. It is not something that you want failing during your holiday.

Engine coolant levels

Six million motorists around the UK are risking a repair bill of over £1,000 by failing to regularly check that their engine coolant is at a recommended level according to the AA. This is absolutely vital if you are to prevent overheating in the summer.

It is recommended that you check that your coolant fluid level is between the maximum and minimum marks on the tank at least once a week when the engine is cold. If the coolant level has dropped, make sure that you get it checked out at your local garage because ordinarily coolant levels should remain at the same level between services.

TYRES

During the summer in the UK, the fluctuations in temperature, especially when they go in the positive direction can exacerbate existing tyre trouble. The number one cause of breakdown in the UK is flat tyres. Fluctuations in temperature can effect tyre pressures, so it is very important to keep on top of your tyre pressures, checking them regularly and always using the correct Psi for the loading of the vehicle. If you are off on holiday and the car is stacked to the gunnels, before you leave change your tyre pressure at a reputable garage or forecourt. Trye pressure stickers tend to be either inside the petrol cap or on one of the door frames, they are also in your vehicle handbook.

Following a warm spell, if it rains (as if that could happen midsummer in the UK?) then the roads are particularly slippery. This is due to tyre rubber that has adhered to the tarmac on very hot days, which when wet become very slippery and can cause nasty accidents. Making sure your tyre pressure and tread depths are correct will help to avoid any skidding in these treacherous conditions. The deeper your tread depth the more water will be dispersed and the safer you will be.

VISIBILITY

Visibility is essential to road safety. Making sure you keep your windscreen wash topped up will help keep off the dirt which can come down in summer rain storms in addition to the bugs that find themselves face first in your windscreen. Without the correct concentration of windscreen wash you may not be able to get rid of the smears caused by these unsuspecting bugs. Good condition wiper blades and correct size and fitting of blades is essential to good visibility.

Truck Fest memories are to linger long...

TRUCK Festival's first three-day event saw hundreds of musicians and fans from across the country pack into Steventon's Hill Farm from Friday, July 15 to Sunday, July 17.

Musicians such as Catfish and the Bottlemen, Manic Street Preachers, Kodaline, Jack Savoretti, Yves, Pumarosa and many more all showed why Truck is one of the most popular independent music festivals in the country.

And with the festival selling out 10 days before it started, it is fair to say that the memories of the weekend will not fade away in a hurry.

Pictured is Isabel Munoz-Newsome, of the band Pumarosa, in action on the main stage on Friday evening at this year's Truck Fest.

Truck Fest was one to remember

THIS year's Truck Festival was one to remember.

After the success of last year's event, which saw Clean Bandit, Nothing But Thieves and Don Broco take charge of the main stage over two days, 2016 saw the festival reach new heights.

Revealing that the festival would be a three-day event in the spring, it sold out 10 days before the event, which saw big names such as Kodaline, Catfish and the Bottlemen and the Manic Street Preachers arrive at Hill Farm, Steventon.

But as well as the big names, the festival is also the stage for a number of local bands to make their mark.

This was the case for Swindon alternative band Yves.

Made up of Harry Roke as lead vocalist and guitarist, Finn Wilkinson on drums and backing vocals and Mitchell Dodson on bass, the group was the first act to take to the main stage at this year's festival.

Harry said: "Performing at Truck was a great experience for us and we have four more festivals after this one, so it was a good test run."

And bandmate Finn said: "It was quite abrupt because we only found out two weeks ago that we were playing here but we are glad we played here because the whole festival is very fun.

By James Richings

Mitchell said: 'Seeing the fans jump up and down is what we are all about – it's what we want to see.

"We want to see people enjoying themselves and that's why many bands love doing festivals."

Mitchell revealed that he had previously attended the festival as a fan.

From Yves being the first act on the Friday, Catfish was the last to perform but the first of three headliners to take the main stage, with the four friends of Ryan Evan McCann, Benjamin Blakeway, Robert Hall and Johnny Bond.

Post-gig, lead singer 'Van' McGann said: "It was class. We played here two years ago we were third on the bill and got to see the Cribs, who are one of our favourite bands, so it was great. Coming back and doing that slot ourselves is a massive honour."

Their set was the perfect way to end the first day for fans Daniel McCloy and Katie Everitt, who attended the festival for the first time.

Dan, 37, said: "When I saw the line-up and realised Catfish were playing, I had to get the tickets for Katie's birthday."

Chemistry proved a winner

THERE was a party atmosphere at the New Theatre on Monday night as the musical 'Save the Last Dance for Me' arrived in Oxford.

By James Richings

Named after The Drifters song, the musical is set in 1963 and tells the story of two sisters.

Jennifer, who is played by former X Factor contestant Lola Saunders, and Marie, who is played by actress Elizabeth Carter, go on their first holiday together without their parents.

After leaving Luton for sunny Lowestoft, the two siblings meet a group of American airmen, who invite the two sisters to a dance at their base.

While they are boogying the night away, 17-year-old Marie instantly falls in love with Curtis (Wayne Robinson), a black airman, who also has mutual feelings towards Marie.

However, the tension of being in the army and as well as being in an inter-racial relationship, back in a time when it was deemed inappropriate, fills Curtis' head with excitement, doubt and curiosity, as well as acting irrationally, which was perfect for this love story.

I have seen many shows where you can tell the actors are just playing a character and the chemistry has not been the best.

But as soon as the first curtain went up I was captivated as the chemistry between all the characters was spot on.

Saunders and Carter made it believable to the audience that they were sisters, whilst former Blue member Antony Costa, who received a great reception when he first took to the stage, which he acknowledged, came out with an American accent that took everyone by surprise.

Known for his typical London twang that helped him reached the top of the charts on many occasions, out came this strong Memphis dialect that really help set the tone for what was in store.

The doo-wop dancing with popular hits from the likes of Elvis, Andy Williams and The Drifters being belted across the George Street venue by the cast of 17 performers really left the hairs on the back of your neck standing, as every song was sung with conviction.

However, there was just one negative. On a couple of occasions, the band playing some of the most famous tunes from the 1950s and 1960s were louder than the singers, which did drown out their vocals.

But this did not spoil my evening, as everything seemed to fall into place.

The ending was also a great sight to see.

I must have been the youngest person watching the show, as there at least two generation gaps between the audience and myself.

So when a certain number came on, I didn't appreciate the song as much as the numerous pensioners did, as they started to sing without a care in the world.

The bows and thank-yous lasted for a good 10 to 15 minutes with Costa regularly encouraging everyone in the theatre to dance and sing to the tunes being played.

Overall, I thoroughly enjoyed the musical and highly recommend it.

When Hearing Matters

WIDEX APPROVED DISPENSING CENTRE

Why people choose us.

Keith Donaghy has over 30 years experience in helping thousands of people in Oxfordshire to hear clearly and precisely. There is no satisfactory quick fix when it comes to your hearing health, as claimed by some high street retailers advertising in the media. It takes time and a dedicated, expert hearing aid audiologist to help you hear well again.

Keith Donaghy Hearingcare is a full time dedicated hearing aid clinic. We are purely hearing care specialists (nothing more, nothing less), unlike some other branded retailers which are chemists or opticians and who have limited access to hearing aid manufacturers. As we are a completely independent hearing aid clinic we are not tied financially, or in any other way, to any particular hearing aid manufacturer therefore we can provide the best system for each client. We can also prescribe the latest brand new technology immediately it becomes available and many of our clients return to us for upgrades keeping their hearing ability in tip top condition continuously.

Good clear hearing is what everybody wants and a fully trained, experienced and independent hearing aid audiologist can help you achieve the best from a new hearing system.

At Keith Donaghy Hearing care all patients receive a full aftercare programme with help, advice, rehabilitation and retuning of your hearing aid system so that you are always hearing clearly.

A hearing aid is only as good as the audiologist prescribing and programming it.

Thoughts penned on home

By James Richings

The event, which started yesterday (Wednesday, July 20) and finishes on Saturday, July 23, will see numerous writers from across the country share their thoughts on the subject of home, with the stories touching on a number of side topics.

Environmentalism, cultural differences and sexuality are just some of the areas that writers will be talking about when discussing the main subject of home.

And for poet, writer and actress Cecilia Knapp, who will perform at the Beaumont Street theatre on Saturday, the chance to express her thoughts and feelings in Oxford was an offer too good to refuse.

"I haven't ever performed in Oxford and I'm thrilled to be coming to read as I love the city, so I'm really looking forward to it," she said.

"There's a freedom in writing where all you need is a pen and paper.

"Somehow seeing it on the page always helps me to make sense of what's going on in my head."

A full-time performer for the last four years, Cecilia has headlined some of Britain's most popular poetry events such as London's Bang Said the Gun, while her debut spoken word play, 'Finding Home' premiered at the capital's Roundhouse Theatre last year.

And with a new crowd to woo this weekend, the writer hopes her experiences, which have been the main source of inspiration for her poems and stories, will encourage a new generation of writers, with Cecilia stating that 'writing down how you feel, or what you have experienced gives you the space to process and reconcile your thoughts'.

"I write a lot about place and how that has an impact on people and a lot of my poetry attempts to deal with this idea," she said

"My debut theatre piece 'Finding Home' is really about finding a place to call your own, but it's also a story about finding home within yourself and learning to love yourself in spite of how difficult life might make that for you.

"And I just love telling stories and I think stories unite us.

"They help us understand ourselves, to process our experiences, and the telling of stories helps us understand others.

"This idea of home is an interesting and complex idea and everyone will bring something new and unique to their work on the subject.

"I'm looking forward to bringing my story, and to hearing others."

The performance will start at 7.30pm and tickets cost £10.

Dive into the past and discover the extraordinary story of Sicily, the island at the crossroads of the Mediterranean, through spectacular finds rescued from the sea by underwater archaeologists.

Peter Pan in Scarlet

This summer marks the return of the Oxford Playhouse to middle scale producing with the world premiere of the stage adaptation of Peter Pan in Scarlet, the best-selling official sequel to JM Barrie's Peter Pan, written by Carnegie Medal and three times Whitbread Children's Book Award winner Geraldine McCaughrean. The book was originally commissioned by Great Ormond Street Hospital Children's Charity to whom Barrie gifted all rights to the character and original writings in 1929. The novel will be brought thrillingly to life by director and adapter Theresa Heskins, Artistic Director of the New Vic Theatre, and an award-winning team including Aerial Director, Vicki Amedume, Artistic Director of circus theatre company Upswing, composer and Musical Director, James Atherton and designer Liz Cooke.

It's 1929, and Wendy and the Lost Boys have all grown up when strange dreams begin to spill out of Neverland. When souvenirs of Neverland appear in their beds – cutlasses, mermaids & war paint – the Lost Boys realise that something must be wrong, and their friend Peter Pan needs their help. Wendy and the Lost Boys squeeze into their own children's clothes, shrink down to their former sizes and, armed only with fairy dust, fly back to Neverland for one last adventure. There are thrills, spills and much swash-buckling derring-do in this action packed spectacular as Tootles, Slightly, Wendy, John and Peter fight wild animals, quarrel with fairies, climb treacherous mountains and encounter curious characters like Ravello, a circus ringmaster and Fireflyer, the grumpy fairy.

Geraldine McCaughrean has written more than 160 books and her work has been translated into 45 languages worldwide. Her work includes many retellings of classic stories for children including The Odyssey, El Cid, The Canterbury Tales and Moby Dick. In 2004, to coincide with Peter Pan's centenary Great Ormond Street Hospital Children's Charity launched a competition to find the author of a sequel. McCaughrean won the competition, after submitting a synopsis and a sample chapter. Peter Pan in Scarlet was released internationally on 5 October 2006 and has since been translated into 37 languages in 55 countries. McCaughrean has written many other children's fiction books including The Kite Rider, The White Darkness, Plundering Paradise and The Middle of Nowhere. Her historical novels for adults include: The Maypole, Fire's Astonishment, Vainglory, Lovesong and The Ideal Wife.

Theresa Heskins is the Artistic Director of the New Vic Theatre. Recent productions have included Kiss Me Quickstep, Robin Hood & Marian, Unearthed (developed in association with the National Theatre Studio; one of the Guardian's top Ten Regional productions of 2015), The Throne, Dracula (one of the Observer's Top Ten Productions of 2015), The Borrowers and Around the World in 80 Days in collaboration with Manchester's Royal Exchange Theatre (nominated for 'Best Show for Children and Young People' in the 2014 UK Theatre Awards and the 2015 Manchester Theatre Awards 'Best Production'). Her adaptation of The Lion the Witch and the Wardrobe, originally presented at the New Vic, has subsequently been produced by Northampton Theatres, the Kingston Rose and, last Christmas, by both the Edinburgh Lyceum and the Cardiff Sherman.

Summer 2016 sees the completion of a 3-year refurbishment programme at the Oxford Playhouse, with the new auditorium re-opening with Peter Pan in Scarlet after a 2-week run at the New Vic.

Peter Pan In Scarlet is the official sequel to J M Barrie's Peter Pan commissioned by Great Ormond Street Hospital Children's Charity and published by Oxford University Press. Great Ormond Street Hospital Children's Charity registered charity no. 1160024.

Summer Fun with the Earth Trust

Looking for some inspiration to keep the kids busy this summer? Look no further! Here at the Earth Trust we've got a whole host of activities and events throughout July and August. Earth Trust is an environmental learning charity based in Little Wittenham (OX14 4QZ); our nature reserve is home to the iconic Wittenham Clumps, as well as a working farm, beautiful wildflower meadows and shady woodlands.

Our summer holiday Clumps Club for 7-11 year olds is running from 25th-29th July, though it's filling up fast so be sure to get in touch asap if you would like to book. This year we're also trialing a Clumps Club for slightly older children (12-14yrs) on 4th and 5th August. On Thursday 4th we'll be learning all about Survival and Bushcraft, including shelter building, lighting a fire without matches and making bows and arrows! On Friday 5th we're giving youngsters the opportunity to Be a Wildlife Warden and help out with practical conservation tasks on the nature reserve. Both days are sure to be a lot of fun.

We also have two Wildlife Wednesdays during August; our roving Wildlife Wednesday visits a different Earth Trust community nature reserve each time and this summer you can find us at Mowbray Fields in Didcot on 3rd

August and Wallingford Castle Meadows on 17th August. Come out and play and find out all about your local wildlife.

Older children (and adults!) may be interested in our Meteor Shower Walk on Friday 12th August. Following an informative talk and walk up the Wittenham Clumps, we'll settle down to watch the annual Perseid meteor shower (weather permitting!). Due to the timing (9pm-11pm) younger children might have to give this one a miss.

We've got plenty of drop-in sessions coming up too, including our regular Woodland Adventure for 5-8 year olds (10th and 24th August) and Discover & Play for the under-5s (22nd July and 12th August), as well as a pond dipping day for all on Sunday 7th August. There's no need to book for any of these sessions, just turn up and join in!

For full details, including prices and how to book, please see www.earthtrust.org.uk/whatson.

If you can't make it to any of our events why not pop by for a picnic or a walk up the Wittenham Clumps? There's lots to explore and a sunny summer's day is the perfect time.

We hope to see you soon!

Summer 2016!

School's Out

School is out and Cornerstone is in!

Cornerstone has the school holidays covered with a huge range of workshops to keep youngsters busy.

World Dance Day On Thursday 28 July is for all those aged 5 years plus who fancy trying their hand at different dance styles from around the globe. Styles include Bollywood, African Jazz, Khatak, Hungarian folk and more. All abilities welcome as children are encouraged to work with others and learn fun combinations of movement from around the world.

On Tuesday 2 and Wednesday 3 August, those aged 6-12 years can enjoy Dance Explorers. This two session workshop is an opportunity for young people to create a new piece of dance together which will be shown to family and friends at the end of the second session.

Science Oxford and Cornerstone join forces for a variety of Creative Science Workshops between Wednesday 3 and Thursday 4 August. From crazy kitchen chemistry, to making your own computer game, or a creative construction masterclass. There's loads to keep young minds busy.

Budding actors can create a musical in a day on Friday 5 August. Learn the songs and the words to Annie and perform to friends and family at the end of the day.

On Saturday 6 August a skeletal scaffold steam locomotive will be outside Cornerstone for a contemporary and urban dance show at 11am and 2pm. After both performances there will be a free workshop for everyone aged 10 plus to learn the skills for yourselves.

For crafty 6-13 year olds, come and try your hand at creating elephants out of milk bottles on Tuesday 9 August at Recycled Art: Milk Bottle Elephants. There will be all manner of throwaway materials available such as colourful patterned paper and sequins to make your own unique creation.

On Thursday 11 August, dress for mess and get a feel for professional clay whilst making fun and quirky pots in Clay Sculpture: Animal Pots. Your masterpieces will be professionally fired ready for collection at a later date.

Animation: Fantasy, Magic and Mayhem! is a hands-on, one-day animation workshop on Friday 12 August. Seven to 13 year olds will learn the tricks of the trade; from stop frame to flipbooks, iPad cartoons to Apps, ending with a magical mini animation.

For the littlest ones in the family, an outdoor experience awaits under-fives on Sunday 31 July. In the show Little Artist: Big Painting dancers create a larger than life painting through a colourful mixture of dance, paint and music. There's a chance for little artists to create their own big painting with the dancers after the show.

Compton Verney

Compton Verney
ART GALLERY & PARK

What is Compton Verney?

Seen across the lake and majestic grounds created by Lancelot 'Capability' Brown, the 18th Century Robert Adam-designed Compton Verney could be the quintessential English country house.

But this once refined seat of nobility is anything but Warwickshire's answer to Downton Abbey, today Compton Verney is a vibrant and nationally important art gallery and park.

In the late 1700s Compton Verney was transformed into the magnificent Georgian mansion by Britain's most gifted innovators: the architect Robert Adam, and the celebrated landscape designer, Lancelot 'Capability' Brown.

In 1993, Compton Verney was bought by Sir Peter Moores who painstakingly restored Compton Verney while putting together a collection artworks including ancient Chinese bronzes, Tudor portraits and 18th-century Neapolitan landscapes.

Today Compton Verney is home to one of Britain's most important and culturally forward-thinking art galleries. Brown's landscape is also being sensitively restored and reinterpreted, making it a haven for nature lovers, an outdoor art space and huge adventure playground for children – and the location for some fantastic exhibitions and events.

Running until 2 October is one of 2016's most feel-good exhibitions, Britain in the Fifties: Design and Aspiration which will take you on a fascinating journey down memory lane. See how design shaped and influenced people's lives whilst embodying their aspirations for the future. Although the country was still recovering from the seismic shock of the Second World War, there was a general mood of optimism, as austerity gave way to increasing affluence and burgeoning consumerism. This carried on through much of the decade, prompting Harold Macmillan's famous quote: "Go around the country, go to the industrial towns, go to the farms and you will see a state of prosperity such as we have never had in my lifetime ...most of our people have never had it so good."

In the years which followed the ground-breaking Festival of Britain of 1951, design played a crucial role in shaping and redefining the Brave New World of a modernising and increasingly prosperous Britain. Britain in the Fifties traces the design journey of a notional young British couple and conjures the social and cultural landscape of this fascinating time.

New interior and performance praised as the Jaguar XE R-Sport is released by iconic manufacturer

If you want to feel epic, buy one

THIS week's review of the Jaguar XE R-Sport will be very easy to explain, but it will also be a very short review I'm afraid – this is because not only do I like how the XE R-Sport looks, but I also like how it made me feel - and that's epic.

When I road-tested the standard XE model a few months ago, I was astonished by how well and controlled it felt ,and I remember praising Jaguar for doing such a brilliant job on the suspension and pretty much the whole car actually.

I have now had the chance to drive the mightier XE R-Sport and I have to say that it feels even more precise and more poised than the standard model. Once again, I am staggered by how controlled the R-Sport feels on the road and, even if I wanted to find something wrong, I doubt that I could because actually it's just too good.

I know I have said this before, but the Jaguar engineers really have done a fantastic job of getting everything right. The XE R-Sport is, in my mind, a proper driver's car.

By Anthony Yates

INSIDE AND OUT:

As with all Jaguars, the interior is beautifully made and the detailing lines and appearance is sleek but bold.

The R-Sport is also equipped with modern, lightweight materials inside and the layout is set up really well to help the driver feel at home.

"The Jaguar engineers really have done a fantastic job of getting everything right. The XE R-Sport is, in my mind, a proper driver's car."

There are also some very good ideas inside and it is these ideas that make the R-Sport stand out in front of all the others.

Inside the cabin, you will find equipment and interior touches such as a DAB digital radio, chrome side power vents, 8" capacitive touch screen, eight-speed automatic transmission with Jaguar sequential shift, intelligent stop/start, torque vectoring by braking (TVBB) and the R-Sport bodykit which makes the XE look even more mean by giving it a very dominating appearance out on the road.

PERFORMANCE:

The R-Sport is fitted with the brilliant 2.0-litre i4 turbocharged diesel engine which was equipped with the intelligent stop/start system to enhance fuel economy.

This180ps version produces 430Nm of torque and can accelerate from 0 to 60mph in just over seven seconds.

Top speed is also maxed out at 140mph. MPG – well, let's just say that I managed over 50mpg (urban) that's quite staggering!

TO SUM UP:

The XE R-Sport is a brilliant machine that has been built for quality and at a price that won't see you needing to apply for a second mortgage to own one. If you are currently looking for a great car with the ability to make you feel epic, then look no further than the XE R-Sport. This truly is an excellent piece of engineering.

Thompson & Terry RECRUITMENT

Position: Apprentice Recruitment Resourcer
Location: Abingdon (OX14)
Salary: £Competitive
Sector: Sales, Administration, Customer Service, Recruitment

Opportunity:

An opportunity has arisen internally with Thompson & Terry Recruitment for an apprentice to join our quirky office in Central Abingdon. We are on the lookout for the next 'big thing' in the recruitment profession; somebody with the drive, hunger and raw talent to join our ranks. Upon entering our office you will need a warm smile, drive and a genuine interest in sales and administration. This must be matched by a hunger to forge a long and prosperous career within the recruitment sector.

Located in a Grade 2 Listed Victorian office, upon entering you will be greeted by a sea of smiles! We actively promote hard work and we fully encourage, reward and celebrate individual and team successes. Previous apprentices have enjoyed regular incentives including corporate hospitality at Oxford United fixtures, regular team outings to Oxfordshire restaurants and team bonding sessions at 'Bounce' in Milton Keynes. Past recruits have been recognised on local radio and in print media including appearances in the Oxfordshire Guardian, Oxford Mail, B4 magazine, InBusiness magazine and the Herald.

We are all about combing fun and success! Our existing team structure is a tight unit who combine a strong work ethic alongside office humour whilst showcasing ambition and encouraging internal progression at every opportunity. We seek to break the shackles of the typical recruitment day to day; our guys are easy going, able to forge close working relationships and support colleague development. Whilst we recognise there will be the occasional office lulls, there is always somebody on hand with office treats (cakes!) to liven up the workplace.

The recruitment industry offers an eclectic mix of candidates, clients, fighting fires and more highs than lows. You will be expected to attend regular networking events, represent Thompson & Terry Recruitment at careers events across local schools and colleges, respond to applications, source candidates, appear in promotional material and manage administrative tasks. Combing your office duties alongside a recruitment or administrative focused qualification; the invaluable experience that you will receive from our award winning young entrepreneurs is not to be missed.

If this sounds like something for you, don't forget to wear your smile (even on a bad day!).

To apply please send a copy of your CV and covering letter to jobs@thompsonandterry.co.uk

Upgrades in the pipeline as Williams aims to improve

WILLIAMS will be hoping to put their recent woes behind them as they prepare to take on the twists and turns of the Hungarian Grand Prix on Sunday.

By Adam Flinn

The Grove-based squad have only picked up 11 points in the last three races, and failed to get anything from their home event at Silverstone two weeks ago.

This week it was reported the team had launched an 'inquest' looking into its drop-off in pace.

• Valtteri Bottas during the test session at Silverstone last Wednesday (picture courtesy of Williams Martini Racing)

Williams are also set to bring a new floor to the Hungaroring as it seeks to hold off a charging Force India for fourth place in the constructors' championship.

"The Hungaroring is probably the most intense track compared to the other events it falls around during the season," said Valtteri Bottas.

"It's much tighter with many slow speed corners and a very technical track to drive, so definitely not the easiest.

"It's nicknamed the Finnish Grand Prix because there can be tens of thousands of Finns at the race, and I always really appreciate seeing support."

The track also carries special meaning for Bottas' team-mate Felipe Massa, who was almost killed during the qualifying session there in 2009.

Driving for Ferrari at the time, Massa was following Rubens Barrichello when a spring fell off his car and bounced at high speed into Massa's helmet.

The Brazilian was forced to miss the rest of the 2009 season while he recovered.

"Hungary is a track where I personally have a lot of history with the accident I had," he said.

"As a consequence I have the most amazing fans there who support me a lot.

"As a track, it's somewhere you need to have very good downforce with the short straights and number of corners.

"All in all, it's a fantastic race in a nice town that I enjoy."

Focus no longer on 2016 car

RENAULT have switched the bulk of their focus onto the 2017 season, with only a limited number of updates expected for this year's car at future races.

Racing director Fred Vasseur said ahead of this weekend's Hungarian Grand Prix that the Enstone-based team is largely concentrating on the 2017 car.

It has been a disappointing campaign for Renault following their takeover of Lotus, although it was always thought this would be a transitional year for the team.

Vasseur said: "We have updates still to come for this season but it's true that much of our development focus is on 2017.

"This year is all about developing the team, maintaining the focus and getting all the details in place to be able to deliver once we have achieved the stronger performance that we're all working towards."

Reserve driver Esteban Ocon will take part in the first practice session at Hungary for Renault, as he continues to be touted for a race drive with the team next season.

Grosjean targets points finish

ROMAIN Grosjean will be targeting another top-10 result at Sunday's Hungarian Grand Prix in his first race there for Banbury-based outfit Haas.

The Frenchman has enjoyed three points finishes in four attempts, the highlight of which being a podium in 2012.

"I've always had a good feeling in Hungary, I've always liked the track," said Grosjean.

"They've resurfaced it this year so we'll see how it goes – I've been lucky to have had cars that have performed well there over the years."

Team-mate Esteban Gutierrez added: "I'm happy to be back, it is a slow track but it also has quick corners and a very interesting layout."

Fellow Banbury team Manor will also be looking to add to their first point in two years, scored in Austria earlier this month.

Pascal Wehrlein's 10th place finish there put Manor ahead of Sauber in the constructors' standings, and the team will be looking to hold on to that position this weekend.

Oxford Downs leading Div 2

CRICKET'S Division 2 leaders Oxford Downs inflicted a second successive defeat away to Great and Little Tew 2nds by nine wickets on Saturday.

Oxford bowlers Johnny Law and Harry Sutton dismissed Tews' top order wickets for just 21 - 4, and Tom Price's debut 34 was the highest Tew could muster as they went all out for 93.

Wez Mehmood's leading 63 then made short work of the chase for the Downs as they won the match in just 19 overs.

Buckingham Town 2nds beat off Abingdon Vale by six wickets on Saturday.

Town's Ben Laycock dismissed the first three batsmen for 17 runs before Joe Butcher stopped the rot with 26 runs, before being bowled by Matthew Saunders who also took four wickets.

Vale's luck then went from bad to worse as Tim Chilvers and brother Sam were both dismissed for ducks.

Despite an impressive half-century from Henry Pickford who hit 56 off just 39 balls, Vale only had 135 - 10.

Buckingham started their innings strongly with Brandon Lee's 28 and Vale's best efforts were unable to stop them from bettering their total, after Laycock hit 59 not out as Abingdon were defeated inside four wickets.

United stung by lowly Hornets

By Dominic Thomas

A DRAMATIC comeback saw Oxford United throw away a two-goal lead to condemn them to back-to-back losses after a defeat against bottom side Watford Ladies on Sunday.

Ella Franklin-Fraiture and Ini Umotong gave United the lead inside 20 minutes, but were denied victory with a double from Anne-Laure Davy and one from Giulia Ferrandi within an hour.

The U's now lie level on points with Watford, who have a game in hand after their second successive defeat, and will fight it out with them and the Millwall Lionnesses to stay off the bottom.

Franklin-Fraiture opened the scoring for United just a quarter of an hour into the match after being played in to execute a calm lob over the head of goalkeeper Lucy Gillet.

Oxford goal-machine Umotong then doubled their lead with her tenth of the season, showing good pace to beat the defence and put another past a helpless Gillet.

While Oxford looked to be heading in the right direction as the first half came to a close, the Lady Hornets pulled one goal back as Davy got goal side of United's defenders to connect with a flick on and blast her finish into the net in the last minute of the half.

The wind then went right out of the Us sails and the home side levelled just three minutes after the break, with Ferrandi beating the offside trap and taking advantage of the space and chip past Oxford's Hannah Cox.

Watford then outmanoeuvred Oxford with a set-piece to go ahead.

Umotong had a chance to level soon after as she beat her markers again but her ball across the box was too far in front of the onrushing attackers, leaving Oxford United trailing for the rest of the game.

Izzy Taylor out of the Olympics

IZZY Taylor has had to withdraw from the 2016 Olympic games in Rio following an injury to her horse.

The 33-year-old, from Aynho, near Banbury, was set to compete at her first Olympics after being selected a couple of weeks ago.

But Allercombe Ellie suffered a slight injury in training that will prevent the combination from competing as part of the eventing team at the 2016 Rio Olympic Games.

Taylor said: "I'm really gutted and sorry for the owners and my support team."

The pair will be replaced by the first reserve, Pippa Funnell MBE, 47, with Billy The Biz, who will represent Team GB alongside William Fox-Pitt, Kitty King, and Gemma Tattersall.

Taylor added: "I wish Pip and all the team the best of luck out in Rio."

Funnell said: "Firstly I'm absolutely devastated for Izzy, I know how much work it takes for everyone involved to get the horse to this level.

"From a personal point of view, I just feel so very privileged and honoured to be part of the team and I'm just delighted for all my connections who have helped me to get to this stage. It's our first home-bred horse to be going to a Games – we'll be going there to give it our absolute all."

Kristina Cook with Elisabeth Murdoch and Keith Tyson's Billy The Red have been called up to the squad and will now head to Rio as the travelling reserves.

Equestrian team leader Dan Hughes said: "We are extremely disappointed for Izzy and her whole support team."

Smith hindered by first lap crash in Germany

BRADLEY Smith produced a determined performance at the gruelling ninth round of the 2016 MotoGP World Championship to finish in 13th position in front of 93,000 fans in Germany.

The young racer from Forest Hill kicked off his campaign from the fifth row of the grid and undertook a solid start as he set about climbing through the pack on Sunday.

But, during the opening lap, Smith collided with Ducati rider Yonny Hernandez, which caused the Briton to lose his left knee slider and therefore drop to the back of the field.

Smith remained resolute and eventually pitted just after halfway through the GP, changing to his second bike with intermediate tyres and replaced the knee slider before commencing his recovery charge.

The 25-year-old rode at an impressive pace on the drying line, but despite his best efforts and due to the distance lost in the first part of the race, he eventually crossed the finish line in 13th.

Smith said: "It goes without saying that it was a tough GP, but I did the best that I could in what was a tricky day of racing for me.

"It was a frustrating end to the weekend because the team deserve more than three points and of course I want to be fighting for the top independent position.

"I will work hard in the next three weeks in order to come back much stronger and therefore, be ready for the second half of the season."

Maguire magic but U's lose to champs

By Dominic Thomas

A BRILLIANT free kick from Chris Maguire gave the U's a surprise lead against Premiership champions Leicester before two goals from Foxes' stars Demarai Gray and Jeffrey Schlupp killed off the contest.

United started with six new signings, including man-of-the match Simon Eastwood in goal, as the Kassam crowd was treated to a glimpse of the Premiership trophy before kick-off.

Leicester looked every inch the champions at the opening, but United were the first to score on 14 minutes when captain John Lundstram's typically abrasive burst forced a foul from Leicester captain Wes Morgan on the edge of the area.

Maguire's resulting free kick proved top class, flying past the wall and catching Kasper Schmeichel off guard on its way into the bottom right-hand corner.

Oxford nearly doubled their lead as their pressing found space for new signing Wes Thomas, who, arriving at pace, could not keep his header under the bar.

But Leicester countered immediately and soon found themselves outnumbering the defence, giving goal-threat Gray the room to finally get a clear opportunity. He kept his composure with a cool finish going in off the post.

Oxford defended well as Leicester looked to get a lead after the break, with a spectacular one-handed save from Eastwood denying a flying header from Shinji Okazaki, followed by Aaron Martin's brilliant last-ditch tackle on a goal-bound Schlupp.

Following a raft of changes, Leicester's lively new signing Ahmed Musa again forced another outstanding save from Eastwood.

United had their own chances when a strong run from Thomas found Christian Ribeiro free on the right, but his drag back into the box went behind everyone.

With Musa's running causing trouble for the defence, Schlupp took advantage by ghosting through the midfield to squeeze another shot past Eastwood's post and secure a winner.

The champions' dominance in possession then showed as they closed the game out, without much of a threat from the U's.

Tribute game recalls Moreton cricket legend

• The two teams - Mike Underwood (red trousers) played in the first Tappin Cup match in 1966

MORETON Cricket Club hosted a tribute match in memory of a 103-year-old member who passed away earlier this year.

The cricket match at their North Moreton ground on Thursday, July 14, was in memory of Eric Tappin, who lived in Didcot for many years.

Mr Tappin was associated with Moreton Cricket Club from 1950 until his death, as player, groundsman, umpire and vice-president.

He presented a cup in 1966 for boys v men's matches and it has been played for ever since.

Over the years, the sides changed according to the club membership and more recently there have been mixed men, ladies and junior boys and girls matches.

Into his 90s, Mr Tappin would go along to the match and provide a ball.

So, for this year's Tappin Cup match, 24 Moreton players were divided into two mixed teams - the Taps and the Pins – and a T20 match was played.

The Pins batted first and scored 111 for 7 wickets, with Matt Wicks scoring 32 not out, Andy 'Basher' Shallis 26 no and Ross Murray 14 no.

In reply, the Taps scored 89 for 7 wickets with Tom Macdonald top scoring with 26 no.

Overall, the Pins' bowling was too strong for the Taps, with Ross Murray taking 2 wickets for 4 runs and Matt Wicks 2 wickets for 13 runs.

Nigel Hessey, a friend and the fixtures secretary at the club, said of Mr Tappin: "He is very much missed by his family."

Keeper Slocombe departs as U's miss out on signing Bristol Rovers' striker Taylor

• From front page

he will return in about three months' time.

And Appleton is continuing to search for new players with less than three weeks to go until they start their League One campaign.

The U's have brought in 10 players so far this summer but the head coach believes his side are still two or three players short of making his squad as competitive as possible in their new division.

Meanwhile, the U's have missed out on signing Matty Taylor, who rejected a move to his hometown club in favour of signing a new deal with Bristol Rovers, despite 'verbally agreeing' to join Oxford, according to Appleton.

Another player who will not be at the club next year is goalkeeper Sam Slocombe, who had his contract terminated by mutual consent.

But he has wasted no time in finding a new club, having penned a one-year contract at Blackpool with an option of a further year.

The former Scunthorpe keeper joined United a year ago and started the season as first choice but lost his place to Liechtenstein goalie Benji Buchel and has fallen further down the pecking order with Simon Eastwood signing, who was MOM against Leicester City.

Oxford ended their pre-season tour in Spain with a 1-0 defeat against Marbella. The U's face Championship side Brighton for their second and last pre-season home game on Tuesday, July 26 before visiting Barnet on July 30.

Game cancelled

AMERICAN FOOTBALL: Oxford Saints' Division II, Southern Football Conference West league match on Sunday was cancelled following their opponents' late withdrawal.

The Saints were supposed to take on Torbay Trojans at their home ground, Tilsley Park, but their visitors forfeited the match "due to player availability and injuries".

But this means that Oxford continued their undefeated run and clinched the conference title with two games still remaining, and will start their playoff bid with a quarter-final on August 21.

Opening match

FOOTBALL: Didcot Town will open the new season at home to Swindon Supermarine on August 6, following the release of the 2016/17 Evo-Stik League Southern Division 1 South & West fixtures last weekend.

Notable fixtures include the trip to Hereford on Saturday, October 22, a home match against Wantage Town on Boxing Day and travelling to North Leigh on New Year's Day.

Top-10 finish

GYMNASTICS: Carterton's Amie Cooper secured a top-10 finish at the United States Association of Independent Gymnastics Clubs World Championship (USAIGC) in Orlando, Florida.

Despite only being a first-time international competitor, Cooper was placed joint third in the age 13 junior floor routine, with a score of 9.45 out of 10.

Representing the Carterton Club, she achieved an eighth position in the final overall.

Stars' signing

ICE HOCKEY: Oxford City Stars have announced the re-signing of defensive duo Sam Arnold and Jason Ikin.

Arnold, who joined the club as a junior, said: "I feel this season is going to be even better than last one and I think the boys went above and beyond the expectation."

Ikin, who was born in Australia, played his first game for the club in September last year. He said: "Playing for Oxford last year was amazing."

Cricket move

CRICKET: Oxfordshire Cricket have appointed a Women and Girls Director.

Second U's star leaves for the Championship

By George Welch

DESPITE promotion to SkyBet League One, Oxford United have struggled to keep hold of their star players.

Following forward Kemar Roofe's record sale to Leeds United, winger Callum O'Dowda has joined his former teammate in the SkyBet Championship, signing a three-year contract with Bristol City.

The sale of the Kidlington-born 21-year-old, who came through the youth set-up at United, sees his hometown club receive around £1m upfront, with a further £600,000 expected in add-ons. He made over 100 senior appearances for the U's in all competitions and spent 13 years at the club.

He signed off last season's promotion campaign by scoring the third goal against Wycombe Wanderers in the final minutes of the match having also scored at Wembley in the John stone's Paint Trophy final.

The Republic of Ireland international, who is eligible for the national team through his late grandfather, said it was "such a hard decision" to leave his hometown club.

He said: "Oxford United has been my home for over 13 years and has shaped me into the footballer I am today.

"Above all, I would like to thank the fans. Since my debut, I have had non-stop encouragement from them.

"We will always have that special connection as I was once and still am a fan."

Head coach Michael Appleton said the club had no choice but to sell O'Dowda, who had been absent from United's pre-season tour to Spain last week with illness.

Following the sales of last year's star performers, U's chairman Darryl Eales has pledged to reinvest from the two big-money exits, which could raise £4m for the club.

The club have followed that up by signing a forward who is no stranger to the Kassam stadium.

Rob Hall played for Oxford in two loan spells in 2011, with the versatile forward scoring five goals in 13 appearances as a 17 year-old on loan from West Ham.

After returning to West Ham he had loan spells at MK Dons and Birmingham before joining Bolton Wanderers on a full-time deal in 2013.

The 22-year old has since had two loan spells back at MK Dons before leaving Bolton this summer.

The striker-cum-winger has signed a two-year contract but fans should not expect him in action any time soon as he is recovering after rupturing the anterior cruciate ligament in his left knee in April. The club hope

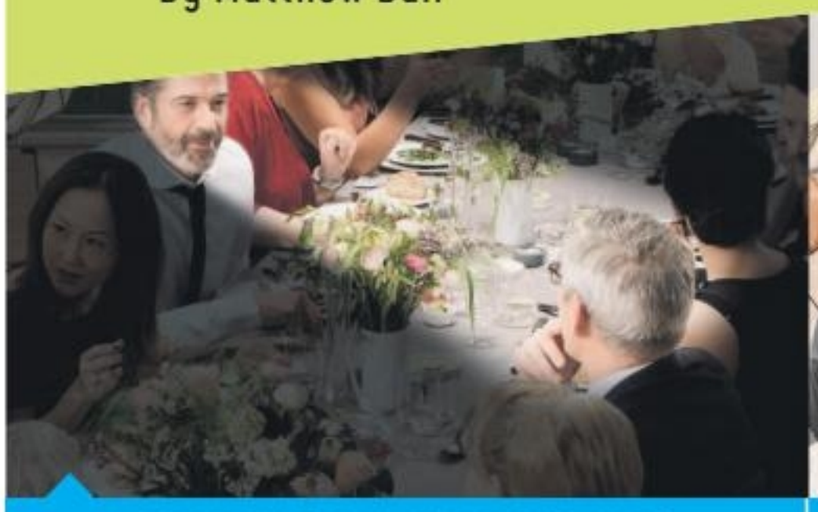
NEW TECHNOLOGY FOR SPEECH IN NOISE

By Matthew Ball



TRADITIONAL HEARING AIDS

NEW OTICON OPN HEARING AIDS

For the majority of people with a hearing loss, following conversations in noisy environments is the greatest listening challenge. For many years, hearing aid manufacturers have responded to this by making discriminating speech in background noise a priority, and developing technology that can help to overcome the problems associated with hearing loss and group situations.

Until recently, hearing technology has mainly centred on noise reduction and creating a focus towards the front of the user through the use of directional microphones. Each of these technologies has been used and improved on for many years, and directionality systems are well known to improve speech understanding in noise. Developments in the technology have allowed many hearing aid wearers to participate fully in social situations and to follow conversations even with high levels of loud or disturbing background noise.

However, one of the leading hearing aid manufacturers, Oticon, has now developed a revolutionary approach to speech in noise. The new technology aims to greatly improve speech recognition in noisy situations and group settings. The OpenSound Navigator is designed to not only remove noise but also to preserve important speech information from all directions to facilitate the brain's own natural processing.

This allows the hearing aid user to follow different speakers and to switch between them; therefore maintaining access to all people involved in the conversation, rather than isolating a single speaker. It reduces the noise in complex environments through the use of a fast and accurate spatially-informed noise estimator that allows the noise sources to be selectively attenuated at given locations. The technology also works to reduce noise between the spoken words, further improving speech understanding.

WHAT THE MANUFACTURERS SAY.....

Oticon - Dainish hearing aid manufacturer recognise the importance of 'Brain Hearing' and suggest this is the reason the initial results from the Oticon OPN trials are so significant.

The Oticon OPN offers significantly better understanding in noise even when listening to multiple speakers. With this new hearing aid, Oticon belive they have taken a fundamental step forward in improving speech understanding in complex environments while, at the same time, preserving the user's mental energy.

In tests, Oticon Opn™ reduced the cognitive load on the brain and improved the ability to remember conversations. Using pupillometry, a recognised objective measure of how loaded the brain is, Oticon Opn™ users had – in testing – 20% less listening effort when trying to understand speech. Additional studies show that because Oticon Opn™ users have freed up brain capacity so that they remember 20% more of their conversation. Preliminary data show that Oticon Opn™ provides a significant leap forward in improving speech understanding in situations with several competing speakers and background noise compared to Oticon's previous premium hearing technology.

DIGITAL PROCESSING - THE FASTER THE BETTER

A hearing aid can only be as good as the digital processing chip inside it. This is because it is the chip that defines the maximum speed, precision, type and amount of sound processing available. When it comes to more challenging situations, such as when in background noise or group conversations, the processing speed becomes essential. The new Oticon Velox chip which has been incorporated into their latest hearing aid, Oticon Opn, offers extremely fast and market-leading digital processing, which will have a huge impact on the overall performance of the device.

WHAT THE MANUFACTURERS SAY.....

Oticon Opn™ is powered by the Velox™ platform, the latest BrainHearing solution from Oticon. Designed specifically for hearing aids, the Velox ™ platform is a technological quantum leap forward. Velox™ allows Oticon Opn™ to analyse and process sound data 50x faster than their previous premium hearing aid, easily following rapid conversations with multiple speakers in a noisy environment. The new Near Field Magnetic Induction (NFMI) system in Oticon Opn™ is 200% faster than the previous Oticon premium hearing aid, allowing much faster binaural processing – a key user benefit.

ASTON HEARING - OUR OPENING OFFER

This ground-breaking approach opens up many possibilities for the future of hearing in challenging listening environments. With background noise becoming less of a problem for hearing aid wearers, we hope to see people with a hearing loss staying engaged and maintaining an active social life, without the stress of having to strain to hear.

We believe that Oticon Opn could possibly offer people with a hearing loss the closest experience of 'normal' hearing.

We have negoitiaed preferential pricing from Oticon directly and we want to pass this on to you. We therefore, for a limited time, are offering a special package price until August 31st, when pricing returns to normal levels. As with all our products - these hearing aids are offered on a trial basis or with a 60-day money back guarantee - so you can be the judge of the technology. If you are interested in trialling the product or would like to know more information, please contact me directly on 01844 396057 or email me - matthew@astonhearing.co.uk.

Thank You!

We would like to say a big thank you to everyone who took part in our hearing aid trial over the last couple of months. This was a great success and we are very pleased to say that over two thirds of those who took advantage of the trial offer are now hearing much better than before. For some it was a new experience that enabled them to find out if hearing aids would be of benefit by trying them out for the very first time. For others it was a great opportunity test out the latest in hearing technology and to see if there could be further improvements in their personal listening environments. Most importantly it was a fantastic opportunity to promote hearing care and we are very much looking forward to continually working with the many new clients and friends we have made since opening our new practice in Thame. If you would like to be involved in our next hearing aid trial and to see if you could also benefit from improved hearing then please feel free to get in touch or pop in to see us.
